VOL. XVIII, No. 1. EIGHTEENTH YEAR GLOUCESTER, MASS., JULY 4, 1914. PRICE FIVE CENTS

East Gloucester

THE season here is fully up to the average at this time. The Fourth finds the usual large number domiciled among the hotels, while the cottages for rent, as will be seen by a partial list printed further on, of those leased in this locality are well taken, but few of the better or more expensive class offering. Building operations have not been as brisk as in years immediately past, not because of any lack of desire; in fact 15 plans of summer houses were drawn by the architects and designed to be constructed during the winter.

But the prohibitive prices made building on a large scale out of the question with many. Those who have that intention are resolved to wait the falling of prices of material and other factors entering into the situation. The government has recently got after the lumber trust with a sharp stick and the methods employed by this combination to artificially enhance the price of building material was illuminating to a degree. Thus far the freedom of the United States markets to lumber has not resulted in any lessening of price.

Four new summer homes have been erected during the past year, all near the golf links, one for Mrs. Weston of Kansas city and another for Mr. Stewart of Philadelphia, both being houses of large area as in the Dutch colonial house in the same tract built for Joseph O. Proctor of this city. A more modest home is that built for Allan Farmer of Boston.

The desirable Suset Rock lot at Eastern Point, which it was stated the proprietors had promised would always remain vacant, but not put down in the deeds—was sold two weeks ago to S. K. Ames, the well known butter and cheese merchant, who plans to have a fine lowlying residence built thereon.

The links of the Eastern Point Golf Club and the 18-hole course at Bass Rocks are in good condition. Both club houses are open and the "season" is on. At Bass Rocks there will be several tournaments and, as last year, the same social schedule will be followed. Saturday afternoons during July and August there will be teas at which prominent women will officiate, with dances at frequent intervals.

The Siamese legation, which for nearly 20 years has made Eastern Point its summer home, is this year established in the C. A. Way cottage near the Souther mansion at Bass Rocks. A new Ambassador makes his appearance this year, Phya Tradha Karawongse and Lady Tradha, with her two children, a girl of 13 and a boy of 3, and altogether they make a charming accession to the colony. With them are the former attaches, Nai Choate and Nai Jajaval. Edward Loftus, the secretary to the legation,

Old Dorchester

"BY rights," as the fishermen say, Gloucester, New England, should have been named Dorchester, for it was from the pastoral Dorset town that, in 1623, a company of fishermen and farmers, who had been gathered by Rev. John White, rector of St. Peter's church, set sail for the New World. Eventually they landed at Cape Ann, afterwards named Gloucester, by later arrivals from the cathedral city on the Severn.

Rev. John White was a man imbued with the spirit of Cecil Rhodes. He dreamed of empire in the new continent for England and interested the gentry of the locality in his colonization scheme. He had been concerned in the Plymouth company and manifested his interest in the New England colony until his death. Mainly through his exertions another colony was sent out, some which eventually settled in what they named Dorchester, now a part of Boston. Rev. Mr. White was a Puritan, that is, what would be termed a low church man today.

He did not revolt from the Established church as did the Separatists and "Comeouters," as those who severed these ecclesiastical ties were called, notably the "Pilgrims," who went to Holland, thence over seas to Plymouth. Rev. Mr. White was one of the big men of his time. History is beginning to accord him the position which is his due.

The following is the inscription on the brass tablet in the south porch of the church — placed tardily a few years ago — to Rev. John White's memory:

"In this porch lies the body of the Rev. John White, M. A., of New College, Oxford.

The Annisquam Region

EVERYTHING betokens a prosperous year for Annisquam. What cottages that were offering were taken up quickly. Few who build here care to sell, but come year after year and the place has a steady growth, which is apparent when a contrast is made with conditions ten years back. In the perspective of a decade growth or retrogression is plainly visible.

A chief instrumentality to this end is the yacht club and its transformation from a headquarters for the yachting interest, pure and simple, to an all round social center for the entire colony. The experiment of the past two years, with the Saturday afternoon teas, has been most successful. The tennis courts have also been a big factor in boosting the club with the young people, as has been the one design, 18 foot knockabouts which gave a new and popular slant to the yachting game in this locality. The yachting and social schedule this year is along the same lines as last, and Com. Wiggin and the officers of the club with the ladies interested have planned a program which will prove fully as satisfactory as that of last year.

The greater part of the cottagers here last season have again arrived and are glad to be settled down in old Squam once more. All have spent a pleasant winter and have returned in good health and spirits. And what more could be asked.

W. H. Forbes will, for a second year, occupy the Hyatt place at Annisquam. Mrs. Ardella Hyatt with her daughter, Mrs. Mayer, and children, have been for the past 18 months in Frieburg, Ger., but this spring went to Rouen,

Magnolia

THE Fourth ushers in a season which promises to eclipse that of 1913, which, taken as a whole was as satisfactory as could be expected. Matters started in auspiciously for Magnolia. What cottages were for rent were taken up much earlier than usual. At the same time bookings for early July accommodations at the Oceanside were also received in like encouraging volume. The arrivals have fully met these anticipations and Mr. Warren expects a very satisfactory season. He returned early in the spring from a tour of Egypt and southern Europe in time to supervise a number of improvements which will make for the comfort and convenience of the patrons of this holstery.

The second season of the North Shore swimming pool opened June 20. There will be a concert each morning at the pool and a weekly dansant, with the more elaborate events in the way of band concerts and dances announced later.

The directors of the pool are: Lucius Tuttle, Charles W. Jones, George F. Willett, Costello C. Converse, William H. Coolidge, Samuel M. Kennard, J. Harrington Walker, Dr. J. H. Lancashire, Horace H. Stevens, Rev. Charles Wadsworth, Jr., Charles S. Penhallow and Frank S. Chick. Mr. Stevens is treasurer and Mr. Chick secretary of the organization.

Among the members are the Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Miss Elizabeth Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Coolidge, W. H. Coolidge, Jr., Miss Katherine Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kilpatrick, Harrison K. Caner, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Bramwell, Miss Jane Fairfield, Miss Charlotte Read, Miss Corinna Searle, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Longfellow, the Misses Lois and Marion McGinley, Preston Gibson, Mrs. John C. Howe, Mrs. Lee McMillan, the Misses Ranney, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon P. Stratton, Mrs. A. DeWees Wood, Mrs. Walter Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Taylor, Jr., Mrs. Geo. F. Willett, Miss Martha Willett, Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Willett, Miss Fanny Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. Stillman P. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Potter, the Misses Louise, Mary and Helen Penhallow and scores more equally well known.

The family of J. Harrington Walker of Detroit, have arrived at Rockledge, one of the show places on the Shore road.

Mrs. Theodore Heard of Louisburg square, Boston, has arrived for the season at her summer home on Norman's Woe road.

Arthur M. Jones and family of Audubon road, Boston, have the H. H. Newton cottage for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willis Jones of 455 Beacon street, Boston, are at "Highfield cottage" on Norman road.

TO ADVERTISERS

The CAPE ANN SHORE, now in its eighteenth consecutive season, is the only summer resort publication on Cape Ann. It reaches every section of the cape, and is the only means of communication of the kind between the merchants and the summer residents. Therefore its value as an advertising medium is self-evident. It contains each week a full and complete account of the social happenings of the summer resort section. It occupies a place by itself in the advertising field, reaching the most profitable customers along the North Shore. Advertisers should remember these facts.

PRINTED AT THE OFFICE OF THE BARRY PRINTING COMPANY, SALEM, MASS.

The Outlook

In 1908, when the Spanish war was well in progress and the uncertainty of what the enemy's fleet, which eventually went to the scrap heap outside Santiago harbor, would do, had a perceptible effect on the patronage of New England's seashore resorts, more especially those on the North shore of Massachusetts.

All sorts of horrors were imagined by the timid. Cevera, with his ships bombarding the summer hotels and settlements, became a very lively reality in the perfervid imaginings of many. Hence patronage suffered, many going to the mountains and interior resorts beyond the reach of Spanish shot and shell.

This spring we have been stirred with the possibility of war with the Mexicans. Fortunately our southern neighbors possess no battleships worthy of the name so that any scare from that source, as far as damaging the seashore resorts is concerned, has no reason for existence.

It was supposed that the operations of those financiers who put the two big New England railroad systems in bankruptcy would materially affect the resort business. Many of the shareholders, who depended upon the dividends from these have been cut off from this income, and this class largely maintain New England resorts both from the hostel and cottage standpoints. But evidently the most of those affected have other shots in the locker, or do not carry their financial eggs in one basket, for the result is not so apparent as at one time was anticipated. Then again life at the seashore is fully as inexpensive as in the cities and a thousand times more desirable.

Another adverse factor was the inclement weather of the spring. Literally we have had no spring except as far as the calendar is concerned. The early tax dodger got the cold shoulder. June has behaved better and the hot wave which prevailed throughout the country about the tenth of the month materially hastened cottage rentals. So that we stand on the threshold of what promises to be a season fully up to the average.

Magnolia appears to have returned to its own. All the cottages for rent were taken fully a month ago and Mr. Warren of the Oceanside reports his July bookings as well ahead of those of last year, which were very good for the season and the conditions then prevailing. About all the hotel men talk in the same strain. Mr. Chick reports that "despite the free trade tariff" his rental record was the best ever.

At East Gloucester but two residences were unlet June 10. These have since been taken.

And the same story is returned from about every other section on Cape Ann. The greater part of the cottages are occupied by owners or long time lessees and the question of demand for rented places is not a determining factor in the success of a season.

The steady upbuilding of the Cape Ann cottage and hotel interest during the past 25 years in prosperous and hard times, so-called, shows that it is proof against any financial adversity and that those who have formed the habit of coming here, owners and others, will probably return in any event. As to hard times, well, the United States does not know the meaning of the word. Owing to various causes people in all circles of life have been obliged to reduce their high speed of living—high speed, high cost. It is well that this is so.

The last ten years has been the automobile period. About everybody has a car from the Ford to the locomotive on air wheels. Prior to that it was the bicycle period, much less expensive. Prior to that people walked and only the very rich rode in chaises. Then the average man was content with the top of the round once a day. Now if he can't have an auto and sirloin with mushroon sauce three times a day he blames it on to Bryan and Wilson.

Cape Ann is unique. It has a welcome and a place for the millionaire in residence or hotel. It has also as desirable a place and as hearty a welcome for the man of moderate means who desires the luxury of a stay with his family in this favored section. And the line between the two is not so sharply drawn at that. And this condition has been a large factor in its upbuilding and a guarantee of stability.

Good Government on Cape Ann

That large part of the summer resident interest which has built in Gloucester for permanent occupancy and are heavy taxpayers is vitally concerned as to the character of the municipal administration. The SHORE has always been with the administration in power, encouraging and having a good word for it on all possible occasions. Regardless of party or personal affiliations good citizens should be with the administration, national, state or city, if its conduct appeals to their sense of justice and right.

Last year The SHORE took occasion to commend Mayor Foster and the Municipal Council for their efforts to put on the financial brakes at a time when it is advisable to slow down the Municipal car. Mayor Foster has been re-elected and the majority of the Municipal Council of five, are bringing the best that is in them for good service to the city.

Mayor Foster has always maintained close touch with state officials and this has stood the city in good stead. A state law made it imperative that all cities should build and maintain Tuberculosis hospitals. It was stated that the construction of such according to plans, which would have to be approved by the state, would involve an outlay of $75,000 and a maintenance cost of $15,000 annually. Gloucester and Lowell alone refused to build and the State Board of Health carried the matter to the courts which upheld their contention. Nevertheless the mayor was able to obtain legislative aid so that the city has not been obliged to maintain this burden. A few years ago a hospital was constructed at the City farm for such cases so that it cannot be said the city was derelict in its duties in this matter of humanity. A less positive mayor and council would have acquiesced and built. Mayor Foster did not believe such an outlay warranted, and saved $75,000 plus.

The mayor is a practising civil engineer. He has instituted economies and introduced scientific road repairing so that the roads are in the best of shape at a minimum of expenditure. In the matter of the Pavilion drain extension he has saved several thousands by his knowledge of these matters and so on in other ways. And so on all along the line.

Prior administrations had, as was the case with other Massachusetts municipalities, spent money like a drunken sailor—we apologize to the sailor—for no sailor would have been quite as reckless as was the case with some past municipal administrations. The Mayor and the Council, with an Advisory Board of 25 business men appointed by the mayor, is endeavoring to slow down the car but the momentum of reckless expenditure is such that the process is difficult. It will require several years yet of the same effort before the speed is brought down to normal. It looks as if the mayor was the man for the job.

Green Gables

The opening of the Green Gables club at Magnolia Friday evening, June 26, was a most auspicious occasion, the dining tables being well filled. The Salem fire caused the cancellation of some reserved tables at the last moment, otherwise the number would have been one of the largest entertained within the walls of the Inn.

Proprietor Nixon was the recipient of a large floral piece, the gift of friends, which graced one of the tables. A colored orchestra discoursed excellent music and a quartette of colored people sang, with much acceptance, a number of the latest song successes. The music was mainly the modern dancing selections and there was dancing by the guests in the intervals. Mrs. Louis Gardner Brosseau and Miss Mary R. Waterman of New York, gave an exhibition of the latest in modern dancing. These exponents of the art will be located at the Gables during July and August and will feature at the Dansants and dinner dances. The initial season last summer of the Gables, under Mr. Nixon's management, was all that was anticipated and this season promises to eclipse its predecessor. Among those who entertained at the opening function were : Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ogden and party of four; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Smith of Brookline and party of four; Mr. A. Paul Keith and party of six; Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cleghorn and party of four; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Perkins and party of four; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dill and party of eight; Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Beals and party of four; Mrs. Frank S. Frazier and party of four; Mr and Mrs. Mark Temple Downing.

The Edward, easily the hotel de luxe of this part of the Shore, was one of the features of last season. Throwing open its doors for the first time it won general acclaim as one of the most luxurious and at the same time artistic quiet and refined hostelries on the coast. Its furnishings and equipment were the last word in summer resort world. It immediately attracted the attention of people of means and refinement to which it avowedly caters and in addition became a popular place for afternoon teas for the North Shore colony. The view from the house is superb and is in itself one of the attractions. The same general scheme of management will be followed this year as last with the dansants and orchestral concerts in the afternoon. Mr. L. Wilson the proprietor has assembled a competent staff in all departments and the hotel opens for its second season under most auspicious circumstances.

Moore will occupy the Lander place this summer, and that Mr. Dutton will also build another house this season.

Good Government on Cape Ann

Regarding an Advisory Board alluded to, the town of Rockport thought so well of the idea that, at its recent March meeting, it provided in its ordinance for a permanent Board of this character which is to act upon and advise as to the town appropriations. The regular meeting was adjourned until such a board, then appointed, could report as to the amount of the appropriations and their feasibility. This re-report made a month later was adopted in its entirety. This is evidence that the town is in earnest to keep its expenditures down to the lowest level consistent with efficiency. As a matter of fact this has always been the case. It is a guarantee to prospective summer home seekers that the citizens of the town are alive to the fact that the interests of the summer people are their interests and that they propose to give a dollar's value for a dollar turned in by way of the town treasurer. And the town is bound to win on that basis.

The Water Supply

The present dry spell prompts an inquiry into the volume of the water supply. Gloucester, as has been shown on previous occasions, is exceptionally fortunate as to its water supply. It controls absolutely the water sheds of its storage basins at West Gloucester and these are covered with the primeval woods of that section. So that no question of the purity can arise.

As to volume: The present early spring was characterized by an extended period of rainfall and added to the accumulation of the winter, soon overflowed the three storage basins. So that there is at present stored enough water to last a city of 50,000 for four months even if no more is added by rainfall. So that no concern may arise over this important matter. The question of a supply of ample volume, pure and undefiled, is of the very first importance in the upbuilding of a community. Gloucester is exceptionally favored and this has been no small asset toward the upbuilding of the city.

Gent's Furnishings and Hats, etc.

In this event no player will be entered under 30 years of age and the players must enter singly. The list will close next Tuesday. A mixed double tournament and the ladies' handicap singles is scheduled for August 3. ## The Surfside Auto Inn

The Surfside this season appears under a new proprietor, Fred L. Hall having purchased the hostelry having thrown its doors open to the travelling public July 1 to an encouraging business.

Although a new man among Cape Ann's bonifaces Mr. Hall is no stranger to the hotel business. Proprietor of the well known Maplewood hotel in the White Mountains; proprietor of the Crest hotel at Winthrop and also of McDonalds restaurant in Avon street, Boston, he brings an experience of years in catering to the fine wants of the best grade of the resort public.

Literally the Surfside has been renovated inside and out from turret to foundation stone. No part of it has escaped the carpenters, painters or decorators brush.

Every inch of the walls and floors inside has been thoroughly cleaned, painted and papered under the direction of a skilled decorator the result being that the entire color and decorative scheme of the interior is pleasing, chaste and restful to the eye. Outside colonial yellow with white trimmings has been used.

Similarly not a piece of furnishing, bedding, etc., but what is absolutely new and of the most approved type has been installed. Everything about the house as far as it was possible to transform it has been changed. Almost literally it is a new Surfside that now welcomes the public to its hospitable halls.

The chef's department, in fact every department no matter how obscure has been newly equipped. It has been named the Surfside Auto Inn and will cater to the discriminating public. Its specialty will be a first class fish dinner. There will be an orchestra, dancing, afternoon tea on the famous quarter deck overlooking Gloucester harbor and in everyway the management will conform to the requirements of a hostelry of the first class.

A BARONIAL ESTATE

Essex Farmsteads to be Site of Warren Countryside Home

In the old shipbuilding town of Essex a new residence to be built for Samuel D. Warren of Boston, has aroused widespread interest on the part of the townspeople, who hope that Mr. Warren's selection of Essex as a place of country residence will be followed by others when considering a suitable place for a home. Mr. Warren, it may be recalled, married Miss Helen Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Washington B. Thomas of Boston and Pride's Crossing.

A farm and wooden section of more than 150 acres of land was acquired not long since by Mr. Warren, through purchase of several contiguous farms, and his will be the pioneer house of large size and impressive appearance in this place. The property includes the farms of Reuben Low and Henry Andrews, also smaller parcels from various owners, aggregating a tract more than three times as large as Boston Common and comprising what is commonly known as "Rocky Hill," fronting chiefly on Apple street. The situation is picturesque, with considerable rising ground, much woodland, brooks and other natural features to make it ideal for a place of residence. There is a large tract suitable for cultivation of fruit bearing trees, while in contrast part of the property in its natural, wild character is the haunt of partridge and other game and occasionally in the past deer have been seen there. Views of Essex River, Ipswich Bay and beyond, along the shores of Cape Ann, are afforded from this site.

The house for Mr. and Mrs Warren, planned by Arthur H. Vinal, the Boston architect, will be large and of Colonial type, of two stories with hip roof, from which will jut out numerous small dormer windows. The site chosen in the large tract is about three-quarters of a mile from the main highway and a winding avenue through tall pines will form the approach. The exterior construction is to be of bench brick, laid with three quarter inch joints, which will give an old English appearance not unlike that of the exterior of castles in England. The style is unusal in this country. The house dimensions will be 105 feet over all in length and 40 feet in width. The main entrance will be marked by a porch of Colonial style, with plain columns supporting the cover, which is to be finished with an ornamental balustrade.

From a small vestibule there is a spacious living hall, 18 by 40 feet in size, extending way through the house to the broad covered veranda in the rear. The hall will be finished in oak with heavy beamed ceiling, and the stairway, placed at one side, shows attractive treatment as to balustrades and vamp rails. The fireplace will be of Caen stone. From the hall there will be on one side a study of good size, opening into the spacious living room. Both are to have fireplaces. The dining-room, across the hall, will be about 20 by 20 feet in dimensions and supplied with a big fireplace, like the connecting breakfast room, to be one of the features of the general plan. It will be glazed in largely with the interior walls of brick, also the fireplace and the woodwork of white. The butler's rooms, store rooms and usual service department, occupy the remainder of the lower floor. The basement contains other service and store rooms. All interior wood finish will be impressive because of its old-time simplicity.

The second floor will provide several large chambers, with baths, dressing rooms and ample clothes closets, all thoroughly well planned, while the third floor will contain a large play room, 30 by 15 feet, a sewing room and seven or eight bedrooms and a bath for use of servants.

There will be a wide covered veranda, with balustrades, on the side of the house given up to the study and living room; and a long tiled terrace on the rear elevation will be made from which there will be extended views overlooking the town of Essex and the ocean beyond, with wonderfully attractive intervening country. The grounds will be developed to some extent, yet not so as to interfere with or destroy the natural appearance of the place. The property is amply supplied with tall pines ranging from 100 to 150 feet in height and well grown, and the avenue winds through these trees. Many had to be cut down to build the avenue, so thick was the growth. A garage is included in the plans, to be in keeping with the house, yet some distance removed from it. This will be a combination building with space for four cars and stable accommodations for four horses, for carriages, etc. Farmhouses long on the property, have been remodelled for use of the men who will be employed on the estate in its care, or otherwise. Work has just been started on the cellar and foundations of the house.

Around The County

The summer people at Beverly Farms and Prides Crossing, Essex, Ipswich and Hamilton have opened their summer homes for the season, which promises to be lively in the way of social functions. The principal centers for pleasure-seekers are the Myopia Hunt Club at Hamilton, which have been put in the best of order, and the Montserrat Golf Club grounds at Montserrat, where there will be a number of tennis games this season.

Citizens of Beverly Farms and residents of the North Shore enjoyed the annual Fourth of July celebration, which is arranged by subscription, many of the summer people contributing for the event. The usual list of field sports took place at the playground in the afternoon, and in the evening there were a display of fireworks at West Beach.

The State Highway Commissioners are busy at work rebuilding Hale street from Chapman's Corner to the residence of Henry Clay Frick. At Mingo Beach Hill the street has been made wider by the cutting down of the ledge at the left side of the road, which will prove pleasing to the thousands who pass this point in automobiles and carriages as the corner was a blind one and there has been a number of narrow escapes from accidents.

William Vickery of New York has arrived at Beverly Farms for the season.

Maxwell Norman has closed his winter home in Boston and is at Hamilton for the season.

In order to prevent accidents at the Myopia Hunt Club Polo Field the polo committee has had built around the field a fence to prevent the people coming too close to the field when a game is in progress. It is expected that there will be a number of interesting matches this year.

The Gloucester Yacht Club

Yachting is a diversion which attracts many. This is to be a yachting year as Sir Thomas will make another attempt to lift the cup.

The home of yachting in Gloucester proper is the Gloucester Yacht Club at Rocky Neck. Here the club has a fine home, most eligibly located. Among its membership are some of the best known summer residents in this section; in fact that summer resident interest predominates, albeit it does not attempt to rule. A fine feeling of good fellowship permeates the entire membership and has made powerfully for the upbuilding of the club, so that it is in a stronger position socially, numerically and financially, than ever.

In its flotilla is numbered some of the smartest sailors in their classes. A notable feature is the number of young women who handle the boats with the skill of experts, among them being the Raymond girls of Cleveland, the Leonards of Chicago, Miss Ayune McCready, the Pollards, and other young women Nereids.

The races this year are bi-weekly Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. The club roster is as follows:

The officers of the Club for 1914 are: Benjamin H. Colby, Commodore: Everett A. Flye, Vice Commodore; Jonathan E. Raymond, Rear Commodore; Charles E. Webster, Fleet Captain; Kenneth J. The first mid-week race of the season of the Gloucester Yacht Club, Wednesday, brought out seven starters in the 18 foot class. The wind was light and from the east.

The seven were well bunched at the start. The conditions appeared to suit the Posey and she rounded the western mark several lengths ahead.

On the run home the Posey and Aarow had a luffing match. The Scaler went into the lead and kept it until the finish, the Aarow finishing second.

In the 15-foot class, only the Slappinsal came to the line. The summary:

Presson's Ice Cream

It is of the utmost importance that all food be cleanly and made under the most scientific and hygienic conditions. The fact that many prepared foods are first sterilized by steam and hot water before being or after being placed in containers alone saves many people from contracting disagreeable diseases. But there are some prepared foods which are not similarly protected. Among these is ice cream.

Large quantities of this article are consumed by the summer colony and some of it is manufactured under conditions which will not appeal to the fastidious. A new concern has come into existence and is now catering to the summer trade. It has installed modern methods which ensure the utmost cleanliness and purity. This busines is established on Roger street, by William Presson, next to the Frank E. Davis Fish Company and Mr. Presson invites an examination of his premises so that his patrons may see the conditions under which his goods are produced. He uses modern refrigerating methods dispensing with ice and its attendant uncleanliness. Only the best and approved ingredients are used and all the standard flavors are carried in stock. Deliveries are made to all parts of the Cape. There is telephone connection and orders are promptly filled.
